

Stomachs For Science

For boys & girls rising 4th - 8th grades

Limit to 20 students

Did you know that you can use marshmallows to calculate the speed of light? Or that you can use a lemon to light a light bulb? This science session is about using food to reinforce the understanding of the scientific method. We will conduct edible experiments to explore areas such as states of matter, density, osmosis, force, motion & more. Throughout the week we experiment and create our own research logs to chronicle all our experiments and outcomes. Come find out that the best way to explore science is through your stomach.

Dates: July 9th—13th

Time: 9:00-11:00

Cost: $125 ($25 to purchase ingredients for the week)
